JEDALS PROTOCOL

The protocol that JEDAIS uses is BSC (Binance Smart Chain), which is the most modern independent protocol providing security, safety, and greater efficiency for both users and developers.

During the DeFi summer of 2020, the cost of an Ethereum gas/transaction surges to an insane all-time high level in network history.

This became a big problem as it not only discouraged the realworld adoption but also restricted the growth of DeFi. This led even the most professional developers to a different network. it's the Binance Smart Chain (BSC), which was developed as a means of smart contract utilization for scalability and drives mass crypto.

Moreover, the dual-chain architecture of Binance Smart Chain makes it easier for its users to build Decentralized Apps (DApps) and digital assets on one blockchain and trade them with folks across the network on another with the lightning-fast block speed.

While the block confirmation time on the Ethereum network takes approximately 13 seconds, the average time between blocks on BSC takes only three seconds. In addition, this platform can constantly handle from 55 to 60 transactions each second.
